Watching GAA in Ireland: who shows what

A one-page guide for clubs and supporters. 2026 season, checked 6 November 2026.

GAA games in Ireland are on RTÉ and TG4, free, and on GAA+, the GAA's own paid streaming service.

The GAA's current TV deals run from 2023 to 2027. RTÉ, TG4 and the BBC (Ulster football championship) hold the TV rights, and Sky Sports no longer shows GAA games.

35	45+	40	€95
live championship games free on RTÉ in 2026	live Allianz League games free on TG4 in 2026	exclusive games on GAA+ in 2026	GAA+ 2026 season pass (or €15 a game)

Free to watch

RTÉ

- In 2026 RTÉ showed 35 live championship games, including the All-Ireland semi-finals in football, hurling and camogie, and it showed the All-Ireland finals live.

TG4

- TG4 showed over 45 live Allianz League games in 2026, on TG4 and TG4 Player, and a weekly GAA highlights programme.
- TG4 shows every senior Ladies football championship game in the All-Ireland series, under a deal until 2032.

Paid

GAA+, the GAA's own streaming service

- GAA+ had 40 exclusive games in 2026. The 2026 season pass was €95 for Irish users, or €15 a game.
- GAA+ replaced GAAGO ahead of the 2025 championship. GAAGO was run jointly by the GAA and RTÉ; GAA+ is wholly owned by the GAA.
- In Ireland, GAA+ doesn't carry the games shown on RTÉ, TG4 or BBC NI. Outside Ireland and Britain, GAA+ shows senior club and inter-county games, including the All-Ireland games.

Next season

Not announced yet

- The 2027 GAA+ price and RTÉ's 2027 games weren't announced when this was checked.
- We update this sheet when they're announced. The latest is always at onairireland.ie/gaa/

The latest GAA TV guide

Scan the code or visit onairireland.ie/gaa for who shows GAA this season, GAA+ prices once they're announced, and help with RTÉ, TG4 and GAA+.

onairireland.ie/gaa · Independent guides to legal streaming in Ireland, by the On Air Ireland team. Not connected to the GAA, RTÉ or TG4. Checked against gaa.ie, help.gaaplus.ie, about.rte.ie, tg4.ie on 6 November 2026. Fixtures and channels can change, so check the broadcaster's own listings on the day.